and transparency in supply chain

Applicability

This Statement on prevention of modern slavery and transparency in supply chain is applicable to Tata Consultancy Services Limited and its wholly owned subsidiary companies (henceforth referred to as TCS or Tata Consultancy Services) across the world. However, if any wholly owned subsidiary has published its own statement, the same shall override this statement in respect of that subsidiary.

Introduction

TCS is an IT services, consulting and business solutions organisation that has been partnering with many of the world's largest businesses in their transformational journeys for over 55 years. TCS is part of the Tata group, a multinational conglomerate founded more than 150 years ago, led by inspiring leaders who have stayed true to the vision of the founder, Jamsetji Tata. His vision placed the greater good of society at par with business growth and pioneered social initiatives that changed the way responsible business was run. The Tata group philosophy of management has always been that corporate enterprises must be managed not merely in the interests of their owners, but equally in those of their employees, of the consumers of their products, of the local community and finally, of the nation as a whole.

TCS operates in over 55 countries through its branches and subsidiaries with a global workforce, developing software and delivering services to customers through the unique location independent agile™ delivery model.

At TCS, we believe in building greater futures for people and communities through innovation and collective knowledge. Human rights are enshrined in TCS' core value of 'respect for the individual' and upholding human rights is an integral aspect of the way we conduct our business, treat our employees and support the communities where we live and work. Our approach starts from respecting and protecting human rights in every aspect of our business and supply chain, and remediating any adverse human rights impact that may be resulting from or caused by our operations.

Modern slavery is a term under human rights that is used to describe serious exploitation of people. It includes human trafficking, slavery, servitude, forced or compulsory labour, debt bondage, child labour, securing services by threat or deception and so on. Acknowledging the prevalence of modern slavery across the globe, TCS is taking appropriate steps to prevent and address the concerns of modern slavery within its scope of business.

References to modern slavery and human rights are based on the definitions set out in applicable regulations across the globe such as the UK Modern Slavery Act 2015, the Australia Modern Slavery Act, 2018, the Norwegian Transparency Act, and those of other countries where we operate, and guided by the UN Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) and the conventions of the International Labour organisation (ILO), particularly relating to forced or compulsory labor.

This statement sets out the steps that we, Tata Consultancy Services, have undertaken during the 2024-25 fiscal year that ended on 31 March, 2025, to identify potential threats of modern slavery and other human rights violations and to the best of our ability prevent the existence of such violations within our internal operations, within any stage of our product and services operations and within local and global supply chains. With numerous suppliers across geographies, TCS takes a risk-based approach to the same.

Tata Code of Conduct

We are governed by the Tata Code of Conduct \(TCOC\), which represents the values and core principles that guide the conduct of every Tata business. The TCOC makes it clear that as an organisation, we respect the human rights and dignity of all our stakeholders. We do not employ children at any of our workplaces and do not use forced labour in any form. We do not confiscate personal documents of our employees or force them to make any payment to us or others to secure employment with us, or to work with us. We strive to provide a safe, healthy and clean working environment for our employees and all those who work with us.

With respect to our supply chain, we only seek to work with suppliers and service providers who share similar values to our own, and we expect them to always adopt ethical standards comparable with our own at all times.

We comply with our legal obligations to ensure the health and safety of all our employees, including in relation to working hours, rest breaks and holidays. We foster a conducive work environment built on inclusion, tolerance, understanding, mutual cooperation, and respect for individual privacy.

- 1.7 TCS undertakes due diligence when appointing new suppliers and regularly reviews existing suppliers. TCS' risk assessment process considers supplier Country Risk information (available from numerous sources such as Freedom House, Transparency International Corruption Perception Index, Trafficking in Persons Report and the Global Slavery Index), the operating structure of the supplier, volume of business, category of business, financial information, and any other public information available. Risk assessment and periodic monitoring are done for high-risk suppliers, and TCS reserves the right to audit any supplier as required.
- 1.8 We continuously track regulatory changes in this regard to ensure that our policies and processes incorporate the required compliance obligations, and we stay compliant. Compliance monitoring, internal audits and governance through compliance committees provide assurance on TCS' compliance.
- 1.9 Failure to comply with our compliance policies may result in disciplinary action, including termination of the contract between the associate and/or company. It could also involve other legal steps being taken against the offending party.

TCS supply chain and standards for suppliers

It is communicated to all suppliers through purchase orders and contracts, and through the TCS website.

- 2.5 TCS has embarked on an improved supplier ESG assessment program through an independent and globally recognised supplier ESG assessment platform. Suppliers are required to report their ESG performance covering themes of environment, labour, human rights, ethics, and sustainable procurement. This program is being driven in a phased manner beginning with our high-risk suppliers.
- 2.6 If a supplier does not comply with the Supplier Code of Conduct or is found to have practiced slavery or violated other human rights in their business, or knowingly in their supply chain, TCS may terminate the contract with immediate effect and pursue legal remedies against the supplier concerned.

4 Applicability in Australia

TCS is committed to comply with the provisions of the Australia Modern Slavery Act, 2018. This statement is submitted to the prescribed authority in Australia and is applicable to our entities as given hereunder.

Name of Entity	Name of Parent Company	Company Registration Number	% of Shareholding	Applicability of this Statement
Tata Consultancy Services Limited registered as a foreign company in Australia	Entity is a branch of Tata Consultancy Services Limited	ABN 28 109 981 777	Not applicable	Y

Other subsidiaries of Tata Consultancy Services Limited may be referred to in its Annual Report for 2024-25.

Representatives of the entities in Australia have been involved in the preparation of this statement. In Australia, consultative sessions were held with the two fully owned subsidiaries, TCS FNS Pty Limited and TCS Financial Solutions Australia Pty limited to understand:

- The supply chains of both these subsidiaries.
- The comprehensive set of initiatives and steps taken for modern slavery governance, due diligence, awareness building and changes in these processes introduced in the current reporting period.

It was established that all service procurement of both these entities are managed through the common process and the supply chain is common for all three entities, hence not needing any separate assessment for the subsidiaries.

These consultations concluded that the two subsidiaries of ours do not have any separate risks of modern slavery within their own operations or within their supply chain.

TCS entities in Australia had taken significant additional steps over and above global actions in 2023-24 to identify the areas of risk of modern slavery within its operations and its supply chains.

Specific additional actions taken in the Australian entities in 2023-24 over and above global actions include:

- Governance & review: Modern slavery management committee convened its annual meeting to review the processes followed throughout operations in Australia in FY 2025 and progress made in ensuring ongoing compliance. The members in this meeting emphasised the importance of increasing the awareness of our subcontractors about existing platforms for raising concerns. The committee also suggested the same for our subcontractors and their staff with respect to the TCS Code of Conduct, TCS Global Policy – Whistle blower and TCS grievance mechanisms.
- The committee reviewed TCS' due diligence process for modern slavery compliance for the current reporting period along with TCS' conformance to the review process of our clients as part of their supply chain.
- The committee also reviewed the changes in steps being undertaken by our clients in their respective modern slavery management processes considering these changes impact us as part of their supply chains. The committee recommended the ongoing recording of such changes and improvements. They further emphasised the importance of benchmarking our own processes against industry practices.
- In line with the recommendations made by the committee, several steps were taken in communicating with our subcontractors and suppliers about accessing the Tata Code of Conduct, TCS Global Policy – Whistle Blower and other mechanisms to raise concerns and grievances to TCS authorities. Steps were also taken in engaging with them to clarify their queries and doubts on this subject.
- Management systems: TCS modern slavery management systems (established in previous reporting periods) continue to evolve and form the basis of managing all modern slavery aspects.
- Training: The updated web-based training pack continues as an awareness tool across TCS Australian operations for associate education. Modern slavery awareness is encouraged as a conversational tool in all discussions related to the engagement of new suppliers and the management of existing ones. This year, we made the subject of modern slavery a part of our consolidated set of mandatory training courses in Australia.
- Due diligence and risk management activities: Our modern slavery new supplier screening tool and processes, along with minor updates to the modern slavery self-assessment questionnaire and distribution processes, are in place. The screening and analysis of the responses received from our supply chain members is completed with no risks identified.
- Grievance and remediation: The grievance and remediation process is in place, and there were no incidents in FY 2025.
- Effectiveness: Continues as per prior period and is reviewed to ensure better outcomes year on year.

Audit of TCS Australia operations:

- Desktop audits/reviews were continued, covering in-depth assessment of recruitment practices, review of payroll and data sampling of personnel files, and no evidence of modern slavery exists in any of the areas. TCS entities in Australia will continue with these reviews on a periodic basis.

The steps being taken by us are adequate in addressing the risks of modern slavery for all three entities in Australia.

The activities for 2025-26 will continue to build on the activities currently being undertaken. It is proposed to have more focus on governance, digitisation, training, and awareness building within the organisation and in the supply chain to ensure compliance with Modern Slavery law.

Specific additional actions taken in the UK entities in 2024-25 over and above global actions include the following:

- The Anti-slavery Working Group, consisting of representatives from the employee relations, HR compliance and HSE team, continues to focus on improving internal processes and practices to mitigate the risk of human exploitation, trafficking, or modern slavery within TCS UK and Ireland, and its supply chain.
- We believe that paying a living wage is a fundamental step towards preventing exploitation and promoting fair labour practices. We continue to be living wage employer in the UK, an accreditation that we have maintained since 2023. Our employee pay rates are reviewed annually to ensure that the minimum rates meet the living wage requirements. In 2024-25, we implemented actions to ensure that all contractors working at any of our office sites are also paid at least the living wage.
- In our internal operations, our background check process applies to all the permanent and non-permanent staff we recruit, including temporary staff and contractors. This process upholds our respect for labour rights and, for our UK employees, includes the verification of individuals' right to work in the UK.

- Desktop audits/reviews covering in-depth assessment of recruitment practices, training, policies and employment contracts were conducted. As a result, targeted improvements were made, including policy enhancements and updating hiring vendor contracts to specifically include zero recruitment fees, reinforcing ethical employment standards.
- We continue to raise staff awareness about modern slavery and how to report concerns through our employee induction and other internal communication channels. During the year, we updated our induction content for staff coming on deputation to the UK, to include additional awareness on modern slavery and reporting channels. These updates ensure our staff are well informed of the ways to identify and report concerns.
- Supplier risk assessment (stage 1 assessment) is conducted annually for all suppliers of products procured and services availed by TCS. As part of our stage 1 product and services risk assessment, we consider national industry risk, global industry risk, country of product manufacture, supply or delivery of services alongside spend. This process identifies our highest priority suppliers for further evaluation. Our supplier risk assessment process categorises and identifies suppliers for additional assurance evaluations (stage 2 assessment). The evaluations include verification of steps taken by our suppliers to prevent modern slavery in their operations as well as in their supply chains. TCS reserves the right to undertake supplier audits.
- We have completed the annual stage 1 assessment for our suppliers, and no supplier has been identified as high-risk. Stage 2 assessment has been undertaken for all priority suppliers identified based on a final residual risk ranking.
- All our priority suppliers have been onboarded to the supplier compliance governance platform in FY 2024-25 and have completed the annual self-assessment that assesses them on human rights and ethical standards. Adherence to our Code of Conduct whilst providing goods and/or services to TCS is a mandatory requirement and our suppliers reaffirm their adherence and agreement to our Code of Conduct (including amendments as applicable) annually as part of the supplier assessments.
- We have conducted targeted assurance visits and desktop audits on a selection of our priority suppliers to assess compliance with anti-modern slavery and human trafficking legislation. These site inspections and desktop audits are a key part of our due diligence process, helping us identify and address any potential risks within our supply chain. The supplier evaluations have not revealed any significant risks of modern slavery.

There have been no instances of modern slavery, identified through any of the reporting channels in the past year. We understand the imperative to maintain focus and continually review the steps we take to ensure we maintain a business and supply chain free from modern slavery. We will continue to build on the above activities in 2025-26 with a special focus on the following:

- Continue providing additional training and periodic refreshers to the identified frontline staff.
- Undertaking targeted site visits for supply chain assurance.
- Enhancing community outreach efforts by collaborating with NGOs and exploring volunteering opportunities to support victims of modern slavery.

7 Effectiveness of actions and residual risk

TCS is in the knowledge-based industry and its activities involve low risk of modern slavery and adverse working conditions. TCS continues to promote respect for fundamental human rights and decent working conditions within its scope of business and addresses it through the Code of Conduct, policies and procedures. As regards our supply chain, our engagement process with them and the codes governing their appointment, we ensure that the risk of modern slavery and adverse consequences to human rights and working conditions are minimal.

To address any residual risk, TCS is continuously reviewing policies and procedures for improvement, and assessing the effectiveness of measures taken in this regard on an ongoing basis using the following key performance indicators:

- Associate training.
- Actions taken based on effective supply chain auditing and verification.
- Observations from Internal Audits.
- Investigations and outcomes of reports of modern slavery and human rights violations in the operations or in the supply chain, if any.
